Letter from the Editor

Greetings!

The plague which has affected us all has brought me to an impasse. I will be stepping down as the Managing editor of Quivers & Quarrels at the end of October, and turning it over to THL Forester Gaelen O'Gradaigh, ODB, of the Middle Kingdom. He has served the archery community in many capacities over the years and is a most capable and worthy person for the position. He has my complete confidence in his abilities to fulfill the duties of this office, and to serve the archery community at large. The Quivers and Quarrels staff will otherwise not change, and I will stay on in an unofficial capacity aiding in this transition.

Our beloved Society, our archery community at large, and our mundane lives, have all been deeply affected by the COVID-19 pandemic, and with some hope, and a lot of effort, we may find ourselves being able to come back to some sense of normalcy. I am hopeful should this happen that I will be able to join your ranks again, and be part of this grand vision we have.

The Society has been a larger part of my life for some 37+ years now, and to step away to deal with life as it is will be difficult, and the decision to do so was not simple, nor easy.

I wish you all well, and am humbled to have been able to serve the archery community, of which I am a part, and love whole heartedly, in such an important and worthy way. It has meant a great deal to me having had the opportunity to do so, and having held your confidence in my abilities to serve you in the past two years. Know that I will miss each and every one of you and that you all hold a special place deep in my heart.

Until we meet again...

Yours In Service,

Lady Máirin Ó Nialláin
